

Thrive in a zero carbon future and transform the carbon impact of your assets

Aim for zero

verco

Is this you?

Real estate owners and investors:

-Who recognise their fiduciary duty and ethical obligation to safeguard investments against climate related risk and impact.

-Who wish to drive competitive advantage through climate related opportunities.

We are proud to count some of the world's most forward-thinking real estate companies among our clients.

Benefits abound

Protect the value of your investments against climate related risk and stranding of assets.

Improve the attractiveness of your assets to occupiers and prospective buyers.

Improve your resilience and position your business for a carbon constrained future, whilst making a material contribution to tackling climate change.

The world is changing

The impacts of, and response to climate change will result in wide-reaching changes to markets, technologies and trading conditions. Real estate investors and managers who fail to future-proof their businesses and commercial models will not protect value. Organisations that have strategies to adapt will lead this transformation and stand the best chance of enhancing the long-term value of their investments.

How we help

We work with real estate investors and fund managers of all sizes across sectors and geographies.

We help our clients to identify opportunities and risks in transitioning to zero carbon.

We explore scenarios for achieving zero carbon and help set the strategy. We help clients to understand the business case for the investment required.

We carry out insightful research to accelerate the transition to a low carbon economy.

Find out more