

Pre-assurance service

Is this you?

- You are going to seek assurance in the future but before you commit to it you would appreciate advice on your strategy and current position.
- You'd like to minimise the risk of findings that could cause excessive fees or delays in tight reporting timetables during a formal assurance process.
- You need specialist advice on the sustainability elements of your reporting from experts with deep knowledge of the sector.

Benefits abound

As part of this service, Verco experts provide guidance on what you can expect from the assurance process based on your current performance and our deep knowledge of what is possible in this area. We advise you on the strengths and risks of your current strategy and methodologies, allowing you to develop your understanding of what to address most urgently.

The reporting landscape is changing

Stakeholders want greater confidence in their data and a better understanding of the overall journey. Current market pressures from CSRD and ESRS mean it's increasingly likely that assurance will be needed in the future for regulatory compliance. GRESB is likely to start offering more points for assurance over the next few years. Therefore, it makes sense to get a service that joins up your net zero journey with your assurance requirements.

How we help

Verco experts know net zero reporting and carbon accounting inside-out. We offer assurance and verification services in house, so we are well aware of what is required and how assurers work. Our subject-specific knowledge puts us in a great position to advise you on the best next steps.
